

THE SMOKING MIRRORS OF PAIN ANGELA MATTOX

Peace Babes. The art of telling on myself, I have totally mastered.

Guess what!? Today is my 1st time writing all week. I'm grateful I was able to get February's news letter in... Energetically, day to day living has been exhausting. I'm focused on being present.

In the sky, we have Mercury, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Venus treading the skies these days. Mars and Venus are the planets representing twin flames. Mars, the planet of war, represents the divine masculine. Hot ass Venus can introduce us to the aggressive part of love. Saturn is said to be Satan centered. Jupiter is the planet of massive miracles & abundance. Mercury is the planet of communication.

The sky is basically informing humanity right now is a key time to talk about unconditional love. Which could be hella painful for many. If the pain is not addressed in a balanced way, all painful illusions must come to fruition. The lower 3 chakras feed it's energy to the lack matrix and Mars and Saturn have their way with whomever. If unconditional love is conversed about in a balanced way, Jupiter rains down abundance, miracles & money. To get a more direct message, research your natal chart & explore.

This is a key time for all Twin Flames (defined via "I'm Not A Staaaar" blog). I am indeed a twin flame. This is a major time of shedding karmic weight for all of humanity. Twin Flames help people see how karma shedding can feel blissful, despite how painful it has been. I've begun doing my soul work about 4 years now. Now matter who I been through whatever with, Imma always love them. I simply have boundaries and I am honest about what I will and won't accept. Same message. Different approach.

Now is the time for all divine masculine energy to heal themselves. It is my honor, as a wombman, to use my internal light to inspire others to use theirs. I used to assume my twin was Jon. I used to verbally tell him everything this blog shares & more. I felt abandoned because I felt like he never supported my thoughts. Still, we had a son together & I needed my son to know what life was like, with his biological father. I thought that I meant I had to agree with the okey doke. So I did, until I couldn't take no more. As much as I love him, I could never figure out why our love felt like I was constantly bein stabbed in my heart. Now I kno that's because I gave away my vril & I was mad about it!

After 12 yrs of beating myself up for making the choices I made, I find it a much better idea to get outside my body & observe from there. Instead of holding someone I love dearly prisoner to my private requirements of love.

Even though I began my work at least 3 years ago, I am still shedding my karmic weight too. Our previous eclipse was in the sign Leo. It was the final eclipse of the 2015/2016 eclipse season. Feel free to google what science says about Eclipses. I'm more curious about learning how the eclipse relates to me, personally.

Esoteric astrology says the Leo communicates like a Gemini, which makes perfect sense. Both signs are likely to say anything. Especially in a fit of anger. Gemini's are the adolescent child & Leo's are the cowardly lion. Both parties on the journey to find their heart.

I have been sending extra love to my beloved Leo's. Their fire themed zest for life is often misinterpreted. Thinking of the Wizard of Oz helps me make peace with some of my most estranged, yet sacred relationships. BD#1, my Biological Father and my lil sister are all Leo's. At one point or another, we fell out of sync with one another. The lion in the Wizard of Oz was lacking courage/heart. Speaking my truth, no matter how others received it was my test for courage. The idea of walking alone was the toxic perception I have been working on since I was conceived, really. Today, I'm happy to know the science of healing perception. My study worked well on myself and my children. I'd love to see how it can heal someone else, willing to do the work.

I usually am running away from my computer because my heart hurts too much to write. I listen to non-stop YouTube videos that help men strengthen my mind. This week, I am focused on getting to the bag! I recently became a travel agent. I literally just passed the test a couple of hours ago (yay Me!). Thanks to partying with Mr. Jeremy, I feel confident promoting myself. I took after my FaVe fitness female living legend, Nicki Rae and packed the hell outta my stories. I have a minimum of like 9 slides up a day. Hey! If I don't promote me, who will!?

I've been social, hanging out with my peers (on purpose 💎💎!). Accepting love from others, just because. Without punishing myself or them for being how they authentically are. It's the little things like a stranger smiling at me that keep me floating. This weekend, I saw one of Vegas's living legends Twix. As we hugged and greeted each other, I told him I want to chat with him later about business. He smiled big and told me how he tells people I'm the one that started the twerk fitness culture in Vegas. That's hella true and hella heart warming. I been keying the violins, focusing on feeling alone. I failed to see who was watching me & supporting my efforts, as I made my moves.

So, in light of making new moves, I declare I am the director of my movie, called life. Words are curses, spelled with letters that create the spell of life. I have been entrapping myself in a lack filled reality because I was programmed to do so. This week, we will talk about the planets and how they relate to us psychologically, being single as a twin flame, conscious parenting and eating insight, my journey with drugs and manifesting abundance from scratch.

Welcome to the Angela Marie Mattox movie, themed on this thing called life. What better way to start this journey than a yoni steam. Don't know what I'm talking about?
